Enhancing the Community College Pathway to Engineering Careers, 2005 New Developments in Pathways Towards Diversity and Inclusion in STEM: A United States Perspective Alexander Gates, Juan Gilbert, Chris Botanga, Kim Nguyen, Bonita London, 2022-10-17 The Louis Stokes Alliances for Minority Participation LSAMP program of the US National Science Foundation has been a primary force for raising the success and graduation of minority students in STEM for 30 years Increasing the number of underrepresented students earning baccalaureate degrees and entering graduate school in STEM is the goal of LSAMP This goal has been nearly achieved through the formation of alliances of degree granting institutions of higher learning varying from community colleges to major research institutions Currently there are 59 alliances including more than 400 institutions LSAMP is responsible for more than 650 000 bachelor s degrees earned by minority students in STEM The papers for this Research Topic should focus on the use of LSAMP activities programs and collaborations to develop pathways to success and graduation of STEM majors from minority groups that underrepresented in STEM These pathways can include any segment from pre college through graduate school Areas of special interest include mentoring research experiences transitions between levels and novel approaches for retention The studies should be research based and rigorous They can be pure research studies curriculum and design or literature reviews but they must be at a cutting edge level and be subject to detailed review and assessment Success Factors for Minorities in Engineering Jacqueline Fleming, Irving McPhail, 2019-03-04 This book aims to isolate specific success factors for underrepresented minorities in undergraduate engineering programs Based on a three phase study spearheaded by the National Action Council for Minorities in

Engineering the findings include evidence that hands on exposure to problem based courses research and especially internships are powerful catalysts for engineering success and that both college adjustment and academic skills matter in varying degrees to minority success By encompassing an unusually large number and range of programs this research adds to the evidence base for the importance of hands on exposure to the work of engineering A, B, See... in 3D Dan G. Dimitriu,2022-05-31 The workbook provides over 100 3D visualization exercises challenging the student to create three dimensions from two It is a powerful and effective way to help engineering and architecture educators teach spatial visualization Most of the 3 D visualization exercises currently being used by students in Design and Graphics classes present the objects in isometric views already in 3 D asking the viewer to create multiple views fold patterns manipulate reflect or rotate them The exercises presenting the objects in incomplete multiview projections asking the students to add missing lines use mostly real 3D objects that are more easily recognizable to help the student correlate 2D with 3D This workbook uses a different approach Each view of the solid represents a letter of the alphabet The letters are by definition 2D representations and when they are combined to create a 3D object visualizing it becomes quite a challenge This workbook is intended for Engineering Architecture and Art students and faculty that want to increase their 3 D visualization skills Becoming an Engineer in Public Universities Kathryn M. Borman,Will Tyson,Rhoda H. Halperin,2010-05-15 Based on research conducted in a three year mixed method multi site National Science Foundation Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics Talent Expansion Program STEP Project this book offers a comprehensive look into how engineering department culture and climate impacts the successful retention of female and under represented minority college students The editors provide valuable insight into how engineering programs support female and minority students and what strategies students employ to successfully complete engineering programs while also addressing policies and practices that will best serve engineers in the 21st century CPST Comments ,2006 Diverse Issues in Higher Education ,2008

Women and Minorities in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Ronald J. Burke,Mary C. Mattis,2007 Advances in science technology engineering and mathematics STEM are key factors in contributing to future economic performance higher living standards and improved quality of life As dominant white males near retirement and immigration slows developed countries face a serious skill shortage in critical STEM disciplines This fascinating book examines why the numbers of women and minorities in STEM are low outlines the potential consequences of this and prescribes much needed solutions to the problem The contributors illustrate how women and minorities are subtly and actively discouraged from entering STEM educational programs and occupations and how once there face conditions that limit their ability to fully participate should they choose to Solutions to this complex problem of wasted human talent are prescribed at several levels beginning with the family and rising up through the educational system to organizational employers and through government level initiatives This highly original book will prove a stimulating read for both academics and practitioners interested in gender issues workforce diversity management and of course in STEM professions U.S.
